

Research data from panels & public data sets

Depending on the data and the situation the GDPR is applicable

Anonymous data: data that can not be traced back to an identified or identifiable individual

Pseudonymous data: identifying data are separated from non-identifying data and replaced with artificial identifiers.

Key file: the file that links the artificial identifiers to the identified or identifiable individual

Research collaboration: parties collaborating in the research, this can be individual researchers, or organizations with which a collaboration agreement has been concluded to conduct the research
